The International Society for Trenchless Technology is a not-for-profit organization based in the UK. Established in 1986, ISTT objective is “to advance the science and practice of trenchless technology for the public benefit...” and “to promote education, training, study, and the research in the said science and practice for the public benefit, and to publish the useful results of the same.” ISTT is affiliated with regional trenchless societies located throughout the world to advance these objectives globally. A strategic component of the education and training mission of ISTT is information. Not everyone has access or can participate in the training seminars and courses offered by ISTT. The organization uses other indirect communications vehicles to inform the public about the benefits of trenchless technologies.
