Iberian Trenchless Technology Association (IbSTT) is a not-for-profit trade organization headquartered in Madrid, Spain. Established in 1995, IbSTT aims to advance the science and practice of "Tecnologías SIN Zanja" (trenchless technologies) over traditional methods and promote its benefits for the public and the natural environment by increasing awareness and knowledge. IbSTT brings together more than 50 companies with technologies for the location, inspection, installation, rehabilitation, and maintenance of all types of pipes, distributors, and manufacturers of equipment and materials. And services, solutions, systems management, technological tools, and specific software for decision-making on underground infrastructure: water, gas, electricity, and telecommunications. IbSTT is a member of the International Society for Trenchless Technology (ISTT).
