Great Lakes TV Seal, Inc., based in Green Bay, Wisconsin, inspects, cleans and repairs underground pipelines for municipalities and industrial applications utilizing the Cured-in-place-pipe (CIPP) trenchless method. From the preliminary inspection of underground sewers to trenchless repair and full manhole rehabilitation, they have the expertise and resources to get the job done quickly, efficiently. Laterals can be conveniently televised from the municipal sewer. This technology allows the crews to efficiently survey laterals without the need of scheduling an in-house visit with homeowners. Efficiencies and a total job cost savings come from the fact that inspections are not tied to homeowner's schedules, nor the liabilities of entering their homes with equipment.
