Nu Flow Technologies manufactures and distributes innovative green technologies to rehabilitate deteriorated or failing water piping systems. They use epoxy to coat the inside walls of pipes or create a structural liner inside host piping systems without destroying the interior or exterior surfaces of structures or landscapes. Nu Flow licenses its technology to third-party entities (mainly plumbing companies). Nu Flow supports its licensees by providing initial and ongoing training, supplying installation equipment and epoxy, and providing on-site job support for complex jobs. The company offers training resources and ongoing education opportunities to ensure your business is always prepared for whatever comes next. Technical specifications and product offerings are available on the company's website, along with more about how you can become the Certified Nu Flow Installer in your area.
